

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

When a signal applied to the column wiring of a display panel falls, two transistors are simultaneously turned on to cause the signal to fall steeply. Then, only one transistor is turned off to cause the pulse signal to fall moderately. This diminish the influence of crosstalk between adjacent column wirings.